For Member of the Central Committee Announced by W. S. Thomas.

Springfield, O., July 16.—W. S. Thomas returned yesterday from Middle Bass and announced that he would be a candidate for member of the Democratic State Central Committee from this district at the Democratic State Convention. Mr. Thomas said the report that he would not seek a reelection as a member of the committee because his brother-in-law, Judge Summers, was a candidate on the Republican ticket was all nonsense. Mr. Thomas added that he expects the endorsement of the Democrats of Clark county and would ask the county convention to adopt a resolution to that effect. Two years ago the Democrats endorsed John L. Zimmerman for governor and Mr. Thomas for committeeman, and it is almost certain that the same plan will be followed this year.

Was Idiot While His Parents Worked—Humane Society in Charge.

Columbus, O., July 16.—The police have taken charge of Homer Thomas, a five year old boy, whom they found at the home of the father Cicero Thomas, bound to a chair. The boy is an idiot and cannot care for himself. As both of his parents are compelled to work the boy is strapped to his chair each morning after breakfast and is attended to from time to time by a neighbor until they return in the evening. The screams of the unfortunate child reached the neighbors, who complained to the Humane Society. When released the child begged for water. ## WEDDING

In the Pesthouse and There Was a Perfect Eruption of Humorous Sallies.

Columbus, O., July 16.—That love laughs at other things besides lock-smiths, for instance, all contagious and zymotic diseases, was conclusively shown when Charles Ham, the watchman at the pesthouse, announced his forthcoming marriage to Ina Wood, a nurse at the same institution. The Board of Public Service, at his request, increased his salary from $30 to $45 per month, recognizing that he would need the money, and advanced part of the same to help defray the wedding expenses.

The wedding took place last evening, and now the happy couple will be pleased to receive their friends in the pesthouse parlor. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ham are of the color said to have been worn by the son of Noah of that name, who is regarded as the father of their race.

Dr. Platter, the physician in charge of the institution, announced at the wedding that it was his hope that the supply of Ham would increase hereafter instead of decreasing, pleasantly intimating that the bridegroom has in his power to accomplish both, and congratulations were showered on the couple by the small patients, one of whom sent word to the officiating minister that he had imitated the miracle of the Master at Cana when, at the wedding, he turned water into wine. In this case the follower of the Master had turned Wood into Ham.

There was a perfect eruption of humor over this sally.

PARDONS

Asked for Three Scions of Toledo Families Who Refuse to Tell Their Names.

Columbus, O., July 16.—Byron F. Ritchie, the noted criminal lawyer who saved Ben Landis from the electric chair, to which his associates in the murder of Johanna Sullivan had been condemned, will make a strange plea to the state board of pardons which meets at the Capitol today. He will ask that body to release three youths who are now serving sentences in the penitentiary for a robbery committed in Fairfield county, without having it known who they really are.

The boys admit that their names are fictitious and that they were given to preserve the honor of their families. Mr. Ritchie, who has been engaged by their parents to make the plea, says that this is true, the families being well-known and respectable residents of Toledo. Although the authorities have tried in every way to make a connection between the prisoners and their relatives, they have failed. It is a question whether they will consent that the attorney break his seal of confidence and give their names in secret to the members of the pardoning board. This matter has not yet been decided.

Mr. Ritchie accompanied the sheriff of Lucas county to this city in company with his former client, Landis, who was received at the penitentiary to begin his life sentence for complicity in the Sullivan killing.

CHICAGO MO B
Dispersed by Police About Noon Thursday—A Shot Would Have Caused Trouble.

Chicago, July 16—Followed by a mob of hooting and yelling sympathizers with the strikers of the Kellogg switchboard company a wagon loaded with freight from that concern was driven this morning under a strong police guard to the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul depot and back again to the factory. All along the route taken factory hands raised windows and added to the din and in some instances missiles were thrown without, however, injuring anybody seriously. At 11 o'clock the crowd about the Kellogg plant and in adjacent saloons had grown to such a proportion that the police decided to scatter it. Six wagon loads of blue coats were sent for and upon their arrival a general raid was made clubs being swung freely and arrests made. The crowd composed principally of young working men and boys was not daunted by the display of force and rallied after each charge following the patrol wagons in droves, shouting and throwing stones. The situation for a time looked serious only the firing of a shot being necessary to set a bloody riot going.

VALUE OF STRENUOUS FRIENDSHIP.

It is a big help in the ambitions of this world to be a close friend of our strenuous president. This is illustrated in the case of Brigadier General Leonard Wood, who is to be appointed major general by the President. This is confirmed by the Washington "Star's" bulletin of war department news. Wood is a young man, and if he should become a major general would soon succeed to the highest rank in the army and hold the place for many years. He went to Cuba as colonel of the Roosevelt regiment. He was educated as a physician, and his chief services in the army have been civil rather than military. Under the President's grateful recollection, in appointing him a major general, General Wood would become the chief ranking officer in the United States army in ten or fifteen years. Considering his service this appears absurd but it is evidently "in the books."

A PLAGUE OF "STONE DOLLS."

Ambassador Choate thinks that a statue of Queen Victoria should be set up in this republic and that the American people should present the city of London with a statue of Washington to be placed in Westminster abbey. The Chicago Chronicle thinks that Mr. Choate has evidently forgotten that there is a monument to Benedict Arnold in Westminster abbey. To place a "stone doll" Washington there might cause commotion among the shades. Is it not infamy enough for the wretch that would have delivered Washington to the hangman to be memorialized alone? Must his eternity of shame be further intensified by the proximity of an image of his betrayer chief?

Shall Virginia set up Queen Bess, for whom the "mother of presidents" was named? Shall Maryland erect a trophy to Queen Mary and Louisiana to Louis?

If we begin dedicating American soil to monarchy where shall we stop?

Mr. Choate seems to have learned nothing from the fate of the Andre monument.

It is the American conviction that, as to "stone dolls" we have no foundation room for pedestals that glorify monarchy.

THE POSTAL SCANDAL.

(Pittsburg Post.)

There is little doubt but the scandals in the postal department, of great magnitude and covering all shades of official corruption, had their origin and growth in the fact that for some years this great department has been made to do service as a political machine, and hence we have had great and needless extravagance in expenditures, jobbery and favoritism in contracts, and a wild rush to extend the service and expend more money in its so-called development beyond legitimate and proper demands. It is no wonder then that with the installation of the political machine there have been great abuses and much rascality and corruption. This is the story of the boss-ridden political machine in all departments of administration, whether State, Federal or municipal. The Washington "Star," an administration paper, makes some pertinent observations as to the use of the postoffice in that city by the political machine. It says: "The practice of using the local postmastership as national political spoils is a part of the bad custom which has grown up of similarly prostituting practically all of the local offices, in defiance of the dictates of justice and common sense, and in violation of the spirit or letter of all the so-called 'home-rule' pledges of the political platforms." This states the facts in a very mild way. The political machines of the different states, and especially of Ohio and Indiana, got their grips on the postal system and used it remorselessly and recklessly. This was shown in the Cuban postal scandals and rascalities, out of which the principals have managed to emerge damaged in reputation but with no adequate restitution or punishment. That set the pace and the measure of wrong doing. The state machines secured their "pull" on the postal revenues, on the flood of patronage, on the contract system necessary in the department, and wherever else there was a chance to play politics of the "grab" fashion. Back of the operations of the underlings were state politicians and bosses, and so it has come to pass that the great postal department of the government, heretofore a model in the way of honest administration, has become undermined and reeking with rascalities big and little. For purposes of its own the administration has kept a clear realization of the real facts from the people, and they are only informed by muddled statements and conflicting disclosures. But one thing is certain: The Republican party in its last two administrations is exclusively and solely responsible.

FACTS AND INCIDENTS IN POPE LEO'S CAREER.

Pope Leo XIII, is a profound mathematician.
He was born one year after the birth of Charles Darwin.
Instructor—Giovannibattista Pianciani, a nephew of Leo XIII.
Andrea Carafa, the famous mathematician, taught him mathematics.
Won first prize in physico-chemistry and the first "accessit" in mathematics at college.
Was an adept in German philosophy.
At 12 wrote Latin verse with facility.
Was an expert in Italian civil law.
Took the actual degree of LL. D.
Pius IX made him chamberlain in 1877.
In 1893 was visited by scores of British pilgrims, headed by the duke of Norfolk.
In 1894 summoned a conference of the Greek patriarchs.
In 1895 sent his blessing to the Christian socialists of Poland.
Was in favor of mitigating the celibacy of the priests.
Favored a general uniting of all the Christian sects.
April 20, 1895, published his famous letter "To the Anglicans."
His poem "In Praise of Frugality" translated by Andrew Lang in 1897.
Boniface II, was the first pope who was not a saint. He was succeeded by John II.
Pope Gregory the Great was the sixty-sixth pope. He was elected in 590 and ruled 14 years.
The Italian name of Leo XIII, is Leone, not Leo.
Clement XI, was the two-hundred and fiftieth pope in the regular list. Since then there have been thirteen pontiffs, all of them Italians.
The title "supreme pontiff" or "pontifex maximus," is derived from the ancient Roman head of the committee of bridge-builders. It is of purely civic origin, adopted by the popes as being most fitting, in a figurative way, to their high office.

THE VETO POWER
As Proposed in the Constitutional Amendment Condemned as Dangerous By Judge Okey in an Open Letter to the Ohio Democracy.

In a signed statement addressed to the Democracy of Ohio, Judge George B. Okey takes strong grounds against the adoption of the proposed constitutional amendment giving to the governor of Ohio the right of a veto on the acts of the members of the legislature. Judge Okey is a member of the committee appointed to secure the recommendation of the veto to the coming Democratic state convention. Judge Okey takes ground similar to that of the state bar association meeting last week which condemned the proposition.

Judge Okey sets forth the traditional objections of the Democratic party to what he terms a "one man power," and declares for "that fundamental maxim which maintains the supremacy of the people's will." He holds that the state has got along for 100 years without the veto and that in such cases where unwise legislation has been enacted the succeeding general assemblies have repealed it. He declares that the Democratic party should "sternly oppose this supreme effort of its enemies to throttle the general assembly in the exercise of the legislative power devolved upon it by the constitution." Judge Okey calls attention to the provisions of the federal constitution which allows a veto to be overridden by a two-thirds vote. In two states a majority of the quorum is sufficient; in seven a majority of those elected; in two, three-fifths; in fifteen, two-thirds of those present, and in fourteen two-thirds of those elected. The arbitrary action of Governor St. Clair in exercising the veto power under the ordinance of 1787 upon 11 of the 32 bills passed, is cited as tending to show the dangers attached to a gubernatorial veto. In the constitutional convention of 1802 the members absolutely refused to consider the subject of a veto provision. Fifty years later the constitutional convention of 1851 declined to concede the veto privilege to the governor. The veto power, according to Judge Okey, tends to unite the executive and legislative branches of the government, which he holds is a union contrary to the fundamental principles of the government. Colonial governors as well as the British crown which was one of the main causes of grievance when Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence, which expressly set forth the failure of the British government to give its assent to just and necessary laws.

Concluding Judge Okey says: "Jefferson during his two terms as president never exercised the veto. Washington used it but twice, Monroe but once, John Quincy Adams and Van Buren not at all, Lincoln three times and Cleveland 301 times. Its early exercises was based upon the ground that it was necessary to prevent the enactment of laws in contravention of the constitution. In later years the ground of the veto has been almost entirely that of expediency. The courts may be trusted to safeguard the form, and the determination of the latter properly rests with the representatives of the people.

"Ohio has done well for a century without a veto. The people's representatives have been prompt to repeal or correct every law that failed to merit the favor of their constituents. They may be depended upon to continue to do so.

"Every motive and impulse of party fealty and patriotic duty should urge every Democrat to oppose the proposed radical departure from the teachings of the fathers."

TORTURE IN PRISON

Ended by Czar of Russia—Punishment That Caused Death is Rumored—Proposed Washington Statue in London—Foreign News.

St. Petersburg, July 16—The Birzhevia Vedomosti, in a leading article says: "The Czar has abolished the harshest remnant of the barbaric punishments of former times, namely, castigation with cudgels and cat-o-nine tails, chaining to the car, and shaving the head, which were still inflicted for certain offenses on persons exiled to penal settlements or to the mines. Castigation with cat-o-nine-tails and even with cudgels not infrequently ended in death, and was one of the harshest forms of the death penalty, being death by torture. Only the most hardened prison administrators could stand the terrible sign of the death of human beings under the measured blows of the cat-o-nine-tails.

The cudgel and the "cat" are replaced in the new statute, says the newspaper, by prolongation of terms by solitary confinement up to 100 days, with bread and water, except every third day, when hot food will be served at one meal. The abolition of the cudgel and the "cat" does not, however, mean the prohibition of corporal punishment altogether. The revised statute of June 15 prescribes chastisement with birch rods up to 100 blows "for slight offenses and misdemeanors" according to the same authority, and the matter is left entirely to the discretion of the prison authorities or of the local governors.

READY TO ATTACK

The Final Stronghold of Rebels Are The Venezuelan Troops.

Soledad, Venezuela, July 16—Ciudad Bolivar presents an extraordinary appearance. On all the government buildings, the white flag, the emblem of the revolutionists, is hoisted, and more than 225 American, French, British and other ensigns are flying over private houses. From a distance the city appears to have been decorated for a holiday.

Shortly before 5 o'clock yesterday morning the government troops commanded by General Rives, the First Lieutenant of General Gomez, were under arms about 15 minutes' march from Ciudad Bolivar, ready to begin an attack on the city. A strong battery of guns had been established on a hill overlooking Ciudad Bolivar, and was preparing to open fire on that part of the city where all the ammunition recently received by General Boland, the revolutionary commander is stored. It has been learned that many women and children escaped from Ciudad Bolivar yesterday before the arrival of the government troops. Among these were many foreigners.

ERECTION

Of a Statue to Washington Urged by London Pilgrims' Club.

London, July 16—At a regular meeting of the Executive committee of the Pilgrims' Club a committee was appointed to give effect to a recent suggestion to erect a statue to George Washington in London. It was decided that the subscriptions should be entirely confined to British subjects.

Archdeacon Sinclair in submitting the plan to the society, said: "Englishmen have at last fully recognized the great qualities of Washington. I feel assured that nothing would be more popular in this country than such a tribute to that great man of English birth, who has done so much for the world's history, not only for the young nation across the sea, but for Great Britain as well."

Archdeacon Sinclair announced that he was authorized to offer a place for the statue in St. Paul's cathedral.

Dr. Barnetta A. Elzas of Charleston has begun an examination of the state records of South Carolina with a view to studying the part the Jews took in the early history of that Commonwealth.

EFFICIENT

[Copyright, 1903, by T. C. McClure.]
Mrs. Maguire rolled up her knitting with a nervous click of the needles.
"If that man don't quit hanging round here," she muttered, "tis in the crazy house I'll be."

She rose and turned her back on the door of the outer waiting room. But the man's face haunted her. It was the helpless look in his eyes of one suddenly cut loose from the ordinary routine of life and cast adrift which Mrs. Maguire could not forget.

She had seen it many times in the last few days, occasionally during the hours when he stood watching outward bound passengers and more often as he scanned the occupants of the ladies' waiting room. In the weariness of his search the vigor of middle age was giving place to age.

"Tis neither food nor sleep he's had this week past," Mrs. Maguire thought and turned with a sudden determination to speak to him.

Even as she did so he staggered and sat down weakly. One hand went out and, grasping a newspaper which lay near, held it before his face. Above it his eyes were fixed in a hungry gaze. Mrs. Maguire knew that his search was ended.

She turned slowly, following the direction of his eyes, and noticed for the first time a small, pale woman sitting with her profile toward the door. The brown hair which lay softly on her temples was plentifully streaked with gray. Her blue eyes held the brightness of unshed tears. The hands, which held a shabby gripsack on her lap, clutched it as if it were some fast slipping resolve.

Mrs. Maguire left the room and went straight to the man who sat outside.

"Is that who you've been looking for?" she asked quietly.

He tore his gaze away with a start of surprise and nodded.

"Your wife?"

"Yes."

Mrs. Maguire waited a moment. Then she ventured again:

"What did she leave you for?"

"Don't think—it wasn't—her fault!"—He stopped, choking. "She thought I had stopped loving her."

Suddenly his face began to work. "Hester," he muttered, with groping fingers, "Hester—you don't know—what the house is—without you!"

Mrs. Maguire laid a hand on his shoulder and shook him slightly.

"Look here," she demanded, "is it trying to live without food or sleep you've been this past week?"

His eyes had gone back to the quiet figure in the ladies' waiting room as if he grudged losing sight of it even for a moment. His face held the look of one for whom all things were at an end.

Mrs. Maguire left him and sauntered slowly back to her own domain. Presently she approached the woman with the shabby gripsack.

"Was it you who was asking me about the western trains, ma'am?" she inquired casually.

"No." The woman's eyes were raised in mild surprise for a moment as she shook her head.

"Tis a more comfortable chair you might as well have if you've long to wait," Mrs. Maguire said civilly.

"Thank you, but it is hardly worth while."

Still Mrs. Maguire lingered with such evident desire to do something for the comfort of this passenger that the latter felt constrained by her kindly intent to speak again. "The express for New York leaves at 9:35, does it not?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'am; at 9:35."

Then Mrs. Maguire moved away. She picked up a magazine and leisurely replaced it on the table, shook out some pillows on a couch near the door and slipped outside.

"Tis to New York she's going," she whispered eagerly to the man who still held the paper before his face. "You've got twenty minutes. Take your ticket, and for the love of heaven, man, get something to eat. 'Tis fairly staggering ye are."

What Mrs. Maguire did not see and never knew of took place a quarter of an hour later when a woman, entering the vestibule of a sleeping car, swayed and lost her balance as the engine backed against the train.

For a sickening second her eyes closed. Her hands went out gropingly, dropping the gripsack they had held.

Then the arm that was as the arm of youth in the strength of its love went round her. With a blessed sense of safety, her eyes opened and rested on the well worn edge of a familiar overcoat which only a few weeks before her own fingers had repaired.

"Hester!"

In the wavering light the face of the man, who through love of her and the loss of her had aged within a week, was white with pleading.

And the woman stumbled forward against his breast.

What She Bought.

THE SICK MAN OF TURKEY.
He Has Ordinary Human Weaknesses Regarding Hair Dye.
"And is that the sultan of Turkey? Why, the poor old man!" exclaimed an Englishwoman in the throng watching the display attending the Mohammedan feast of Bairam at the Turkish capital several months ago.
"Yes, madam," said an Englishman of several years' residence in Turkey, "that is the sultan," and he pointed over the heads of soldiers several rows deep lining the thoroughfare on either side to a queer, old fashioned turnout in which sat a little old man bent nearly double and clad all in black.
"That is he just raising his hand," said the informant, and as a cheer that savored of much practice went up from the lines of soldiers the little old man raised a clawlike hand on a level with his hooked nose.
"Why, how old a man is he?" asked the woman.
"Sixty? Why, look at his hair and mustache; jet black!" was her exclamation when the monarch's age was given.
"That's dye, madam, just plain dye," said the Englishman. "It would never do for the Raven (that's what they call him here) to grow old, you know."
"Let me tell you a little about him," the volunteer guide continued. "This is an unusual occasion. The sultan rarely leaves his palace. Just once a year he ventures out under a heavy guard to pay his holy duties at Stamboul, and once each week—every Friday—the ceremony of the Selemlik is observed. Then he goes from the palace down the hill to his private mosque. These are the only times at which he leaves the palace.
"I know he seems a very powerful monarch, and he is, but I wouldn't take the job at any price. Trouble, trouble, every moment of his life—trouble with foreign countries, trouble at home, trouble with his officials, trouble with his harem, assassins and spies about him day and night. Would you be the sultan?"
The woman as she turned away exclaimed, "The poor old man!"—New York Tribune.

SHARP WATCH

FOR CONFIDENCE MEN, THIEVES AND PICKPOCKETS.

Many Suspicious Characters Driven Out of Town or Locked Up—Officers Are Active.

Mayor A. J. Crilly and Chief of Police James Sheridan are determined as far as in them lies, to protect the Newark citizens from sharps, confidence men and pickpockets who infest a city during any unusual excitement or crowded condition. During this week of the Eagles' Carnival, special preparations have been made and carried out to rid the town of these characters, and the officers have had the hearty co-operation of the officers of the Wright Carnival Company.

Quite a number of suspicious characters have been chased out of town before they were able to get in any of their work, others have been arrested and are being held, while still others are under constant surveillance and will be gathered in at the first crooked move.

To accomplish this Chief Sheridan during the nights of the Carnival, has given orders that all police who are members of the day force, shall serve also at night, while a large number of special police are on duty, and will remain during the week.

To this ample force has been added a corps of private detectives, included some of the noted thief catchers in Ohio, who have a personal acquaintance with every grook of any importance, and well knows his record.

Wednesday afternoon Chief Sheridan arrested G. Bradley, J. Long, and P. J. O'Neill was arrested by Officer Brooke on suspicion of being crooks, while Henry Williams an alleged pickpocket was arrested by Captain Howard and Officer Swank. A writ of habeas corpus was sued out in the cases of Long and Bradley, but it failed to stand argument to the court, and they were held. They had been given from 11 until 3 o'clock Wednesday to leave town, and upon being found on the street were arrested.

A man came up to Chief Sheridan Wednesday, shook hands and introduced himself with a great show of politeness and genuine pleasure at again meeting an old friend. The chief recognized the fellow, who gave him his name, and Sheridan said to him: "Yes, that's all right Jack, but you will have to get out of town immediately, or I will have to lock you up."

"What?" exclaimed Jack. "Yes, that's right. I am chief of police here now, and can't stand for any of your kind in town at this time. You know that I know you, so you will have to vamoose without further argument." The man was crestfallen and turned to some bystanders with the remark:

PAY A VISIT TO THE WHITECAMP HARDWARE STORE.

In New Union Block on Church Street. Fifty Knives Stolen—Money Was Overlooked.

About 1 o'clock Thursday morning as Officers Brooke and Bell were making their rounds they found the south west window of W. L. Whitecamp's hardware store, in the Union block, on Church street, open. They notified Officer Scott, who went to the home of Mr. Whitecamp, in the West End, and informed him of the matter. Mr. Whitecamp immediately came down to the store, and a glance showed that the place had been burglarized. Investigation revealed the fact that the burglars had secured over 50 of the most valuable pocket knives in the store and one package of 22 calibre cartridges, containing 10 boxes of 50 cartridges each, in all valued at about $45. Mr. Whitecamp says that between four and five dollars in the money drawer was overlooked. The robbery was a very peculiar one, as many valuables in plain sight of the thieves were not touched. The robbery was evidently the work of boys. At this writing no clue however, has been obtained as to the identity of the robbers.

Chief Sheridan said a 3 p. m. that the officers had recovered 44 of the 60 knives stolen from W. L. Whitecamp's hardware store in the Union block but that no clue had been obtained as to the identity of the thieves.

J. R. HARRIGAN TALKS ABOUT HIGH TENSION WIRE.

Tells of Conferences and Reasons Why Work Was Done—What Mr. Harrigan Says.

In connection with the action of the Board of Public Service Wednesday, when a resolution was passed in structing the City Solicitor to take legal action against the Buckeye Lake company to restrain them from using the high tension feed wire that enters their substation from Hebron, it was thought advisable to present the side of the Buckeye Lake road, on the question, so that the people could have a clearer understanding of the matter, and for this purpose the Advocate sent a man to talk with General Manager J. R. Harrigan about the matter.

Mr. Harrigan said "In the first place the Columbus Buckeye Lake and Newark Traction company do not fight their legal battles, nor wish to air their troubles or difficulties through the newspapers, but in this case I believe a plain statement of the facts will be sufficient to convince any intelligent man of the entire good faith of the company in this matter as well as a times past; This road is no experiment. They have come into this city and at no place has there been any shoddy careless or underhand work. We have kept faith with the citizens and merely ask that their representatives keep faith with us.

"I went before the Board of Public Service Monday or Tuesday of last week to confer with them about beginning with the city and high tension feed wire, which is necessary to furnish sufficient power to run the city cars. I was told by the board that representatives of both telephone companies, the City and Citizen's electric light company and Chief Bauch of the alarm system objected to the bringing of the wire into town as proposed. Chief Bauch, R. Brown, superintendent of the City Light plant, and W. G. Taafel were called in at my suggestion, agreed with them that we would bring the wire under the supervision of an authority from any company wherever we crossed or in any way interfered with the wires of that company. This was satisfactory and all agreed that if the wire were put up in that way it would be no more dangerous than the trolley wire. The three parties present recommended to the board that their (the board's) objection be withdrawn. The board asked that this recommendation be put in writing. This was done, and Messrs. Taafel, Bauch and Brown signed it before leaving the meeting. Mr. Hollander of the Independent Telephone company and Mr. Daniels of the Central Union telephone company afterward signed the paper and it was presented to the board that afternoon at 1 o'clock.

"The board did nothing that afternoon nor the next morning although they promised to act at once so that we could begin the work immediately. The next day a remonstrance was presented by a number of electrical workers, and the matter was held up again. The time drew near when the work must be done, and Mr. Fitzgibbon as attorney for the company asked the Board of Public Service what assurance it could give him that if the electrical workers were satisfied that no one else would come in with remonstrances, and attempts to delay. They replied that they could give him none, and it was then we deemed best to go ahead and string the wire.

"The work was begun Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock and the current turned in last Saturday or Sunday. Some of the work was done at night when the power was turned off and no wires were running. "We have at no time doubted our legal right to do just as we have done, but thought if it could be done amicably we would rather have it that way, and made the fair proposition that it would be done under the supervision of those who were interested. We could not afford to be held up, nor did we propose to allow it to be done by anyone who imagined he had a grievance. We have not nor do we intend to abrogate our legal rights in this matter, and if a suit is filed by the city, the supreme court will tell us what to do and we will do that and no more.

"As to the situation from a physical standpoint, this high tension wire comes down the west side of Pine street, while all other wires are on the east side. The wire complained of is the best in the market, a 7 ply aluminum wire properly insulated and running high and dry without the danger of the insulation being buried off by contact with trees. "When it crosses the wires of every other company it is strung high above them on 50 foot poles. "In Canton, Akron and Canal Dover high tension wires go right through the heart of the city, and no complaints nor accidents have been registered. This is the only wire of the kind that will enter Newark, as the wires for the Zanesville line will run south of the city. "It is tantamount to any thinking man that the Buckeye Lake road are going to use all care and precaution, for their own interests, if for no other reason. The company and no one else is responsible for any injury or damage done by its wires, and it behooves the company to do their work in the best and most expert manner."

ANSWER IT HONESTLY

Are the Statements of Newark Citizens More Reliable than Those of Utter Strangers?

This is the vital question. It is fraught with interest to Newark.

It permits of only one answer. It cannot be evaded or ignored. A Newark citizen speaks here. A citizen's statement is reliable. An utter stranger's doubtful. Home proof is the best proof. C. W. First Well Shows Flow of Eight Barrels—More is Expected from Well No. 2.

Attorney W. D. Fulton of this city, was notified Thursday morning that the drillers who have been at work on the second oil well at Canton for some time, expect to drill on next Monday morning. The first well drilled in some time ago, shows an output of about eight barrels of oil per day, but as yet has never been pumped. Mr. Fulton says that the company has great expectations that the second well will be a great deal better than the first one drilled in. If oil is found in the new well it will demonstrate that there is a good oil field in that part of the county. In drilling the well the men found the same conditions existing as in the first well, with the exception that they have not been bothered with salt water. All the land in the territory for miles around has been leased.

POPE

Has Almost Finished His Course—Another Operation Probable.

Rome, July 16—The Pope has nearly finished his course. After another of these operations, so frequent in his holiness' last illness, when the progress of his illness seemed to have been stemmed by his miraculous vitality the pontiff is again sinking.

His holiness had a restless night, visibly losing ground. His weakness increased as the morning hours wore on and his breathing became more difficult in order to assist the august patient, his valet Centra had to place him in a reclining position, and fan him continuously. Even then the pontiff was so restless that his pillows had to be changed frequently. Toward morning a rapid increase of the liquid in the pleura again became apparent and before the day is over, a third operation for the removal of this extraneous matter will doubtless be necessary.

This third puncture will be more difficult and more dangerous than the two which preceded it, owing to the great decline in the patient's powers and the consequent absence of ability to resist the depleting influences of the operation.

The announcement of this increasing weakness and the probability of a third operation has again called attention to the prophecy of the Pope, and the dream of the Italian nun that today, the celebration of the feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel would see the end.

The fact that the prelate did not get any worse yesterday again buoyed the more optimistic with hope that the holy father might resist the inroads of his disease and last for some days, but this morning this optimism has again given way to despair and all are waiting to hear of his death which may occur at any time.

It is reported this morning that the doctors are now greatly alarmed at the failure of the stimulants, which have thus far aided the Pope so materially, to produce an effect.

In this connection the newspaper Popolo Romano this morning says that the only nourishment the Pope is now able to take is a little red wine.

The Vatican authorities are increasing the precautions against the leaking of unofficial news from the sick room or the Vatican. Guardsmen are stationed at each telephone to prevent servants communicating with the outside world and few visitors are allowed to penetrate beyond the vestibule.

The mass in honor of Our Lady of Mount Carmel was celebrated in the Pope's apartment this morning by the man, who was killed, stated that the Sacristan Bishop Piffieri. The pontiff seemed to understand what was transpiring but took no part in the celebration.

The experience of another operation for the removal of the matter from the pleura became more doubtful as day advanced owing to the fear that the Pope unable to stand the strain would succumb during the operation.

Cardinal Gibbons, who is now on his way to Rome is the subject of some criticisms among the prelates of the Vatican for starting for Rome before the Pope died. This action of his is described as "purely American speed."

OF A BOY WAS FIRED BY A COLORED LAD

And There is Great Excitement in a Town Near Evansville—Negro Brown Very Sick.

Evansville, Ind., July 16—There is much excitement at Newburg, 10 miles east of here, over the attack of John Powell and Henry Asher, two colored boys, on Roy Moore, a white boy. All the boys are about 10 years old. The colored boys in a spirit of fun, they claim, held the white boy and tied paper and old rags to his trousers and set fire to them.

The Moore lad ran to his home a block away and his parents extinguished the flames before he was seriously burned. The colored boys were placed under arrest. They were tried before a justice of the peace, who released them on condition that their parents would take them home and give them a severe thrashing and this the parents did. There is a large negro population at Newburg and since the race riot there the feeling against them has been intense.

Coroner Mart Walling has finished his examination of all the witnesses but one in the riot cases.

Mayor Charles O. Covert stated that he asked Sheriff Kratz how many deputies he needed at the jail on the night of the shooting—July 6—and was told one would be enough. The Mayor told him he could have 29 if he needed them. When the Sheriff insisted he did not need any more help the Mayor said he sent all his extra help to Bantustown, a negro suburb, as many threats had been made to burn the negro shanties there during the night. A city official owns 60 negro houses there, and had been notified by a local agent that all his policies had been cancelled.

Dr. Will S. Gilbert testified that he was in the jail with a policeman shortly before the shooting began, and he asked the officer to go out and arrest the leader of the mob, thinking this would end the trouble. He said the officer refused to go as he feared he would be killed. Joseph Ahlman, father of Hazel All-

AMMEL

NOMINATED FOR COLONEL OF
FOURTH REGIMENT.

For Second in Command B. L. Barger
is Suggested—The Election Friday Evening.

At the convention of the officers of the Fourth regiment, O. N. G., held at Columbus Wednesday to nominate candidates for colonel and lieutenant colonel of the organization Captain C. S. Ammel was named for colonel and Byron L. Barger for lieutenant colonel. The nomination of a major was deferred indefinitely. The election will be held Friday evening at the headquarters of the several companies composing the regiment.

Although other names have been mentioned for the positions in the regiment, the nominations were unanimous and without opposition.

General J. C. Speaks who has been in temporary charge of the regiment said last night that there is little doubt that when the new officers take hold the old regiment will soon be brought back to its former high standing.

Captain Ammel organized and mustered in the old Fourteenth O. N. G., in 1877, but owing to business cares could not accept its command. He served as captain for six years of company A of that regiment.

He has always taken an active part in the affairs of the Guard and for the past 27 years has been the drill-master of the Knight Templar companies of the city.

Byron L. Barger served in the old Fourteenth O. N. G., battery H, O. N. G., and troop B, (Governor's troop), and until he resigned as lieutenant colonel of the Fourth. He was the choice of the regiment for colonel, but for business reasons could not accept and was prevailed upon to accept the nomination of Lieutenant Colonel.

POLICE FIRE

Into a Mob of Strikers—A Boycott
Against Kellogg Company Verges on a Tragedy.

Chicago, July 16.—Desperate fighting between the police and the strikers of the Kellogg Switchboard company took place yesterday afternoon and evening when the company attempted to send freight to some of the railroad depots.

In one instance the police opened fire with revolvers, and although the fusillade was continued for several minutes nobody was injured.

Later there was a fight in which the police beat down a number of men, some of whom were left in the street until their friends came back to pick them up.

The first fight occurred when a truck loaded with freight, escorted by policemen, bound for the Burlington depot, was passing an unfinished building at the corner of Harrison and Peoria streets.

A howling mob of a thousand men and boys was following close on the police and pelting them with stones and sticks.

Teamsters who sympathized with the strikers occasioned a blockade. The police were endeavoring to clear the street when the workmen of the unfinished building showered them with bricks.

The officers at once drew their revolvers and fired at the workmen, who hastily fled to the interior of the building.

The police kept up their fire through the windows and drove nearly all the workmen from the place. The wagon reached the depot and delivered the freight.

The second fight occurred when the police were escorting a wagonload of freight to the warehouse of the Terminal Transfer company at Ogden avenue and Twelfth street.

The Kellogg company announces that it will continue to send freight every day and the strikers say that they will use every means to prevent their doing so.

The game of ball to be played next week between the employees of the Advocate and the employees of the American Tribune is the sole subject of conversation in sporting circles at present. The date has been set for next Wednesday, July 22, at Idlewild Park, and the game will be called at four o'clock. Such a game is well worth the best prices charged in any league but in order that everyone may have a chance to see the game, the general admission has been placed at 20 cents which will admit to any part of the grounds.

It was intended not to announce the Advocate's line up until the day of the game, but we thought that would be taking an unfair advantage and so here it is, subject to change at any time before, during, or after the game. It gives the opposition an opportunity to gaze upon the array of baseball talent and govern themselves accordingly:

PASSENGER SHOT

And Forty Others on an Electric Car
Were Robbed.

Portland, Ore., July 16.—An electric car was held up here by seven highwaymen, who shot and dangerously wounded Frederick Day after he had complied with their demands of "hands up." One of their number then went through the car and robbed the other 40 passengers while the others stood guard.

Seventy-seven per cent of the women and but 62 per cent of the men taking the civil service examination are able to pass it.

MONOPOLY

On Sale of Opium in Philippines Killed by Commission Theory of Taft's Agitation.

Manila, July 16.—The Philippine commission has tabled both the opium bills. The first bill provides for the creation of an opium monopoly in the archipelago and its sale to the highest bidder. The second is a substitute bill, introduced by the committee making the importation of opium unlawful, except by pharmacists and permitting the disposal of the drug on a physician's certificate. A special commission was appointed to visit the Oriental countries to investigate the resolutions regarding the disposal of opium. Afterward all the records will be sent to Washington.

Governor Taft has championed the theory of regulation, and has demonstrated that the monopoly bill meant the absolute prohibition of the drug to the 8,000,000 Filipinos and Moros, and an effective regulation for the 100,000 Chinese in the archipelago, more stringent than the English regulations.

He declared that it was generally known that the opium habit, as practiced by nearly all of the Chinese, was less pernicious than whisky drinking, and mercilessly exposed the corrupt combination of Chinese dealers, who were circulating falsely signed protests and raising money for the defeat of the legitimate bill.

A NEW EXPLOSIVE

Powdered Aluminum and Nitrate of Ammonia Safest Explosive Known.

Washington, July 16.—Recent experiments with powdered aluminum found that when mixed with oxide of iron it can be fired and will produce pure iron at such a temperature that it can be used to unite pieces of iron or steel—such for example, as the ends of steel rails.

A mixture of powdered aluminum with nitrate of ammonia, is a valuable explosive and the safest known. It cannot be exploded by shock or friction and it is not affected by cold or nitroglycerine. The force of the new explosive can be regulated by the variation in the amount of powdered aluminum. As the gases are harmless, it should be of great value in mine blasting.

Cholera Infantum.

This has long been regarded as one of the most dangerous and fatal diseases to which infants are subject. It can be cured, however, when properly treated. All that is necessary is to give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and castor oil, as directed with each bottle, and a cure is certain. For sale by all druggists.

A family in the southern part of the city employed what they believed to be a "household jewel." For a few days she proved to be all that they had anticipated, and everything went smoothly. One day, however, the husband came down to breakfast and made the announcement that they must get rid of the new girl.

"Why, John, you must be crazy!" said his wife with amazement. "She's the best girl we ever had, so respectful and a fine cook."

"That makes no difference. She isn't honest."

"Oh, well, we'll never miss a loaf of bread once in awhile. Her folks may need it more than we do."

"That isn't it. Early this morning I saw her creep into our room, go to my pocket, take my pocketbook and empty it."

"Oh, well, dear, perhaps it's force of habit; you know she's been married."

A WAR MESSAGE.

During the civil war Jane St. Clair, a young girl of nineteen, was put in charge of a telegraph office in one of the stations on the Louisville and Nashville railroad in Kentucky. The people of that state were divided in their sympathies between the Confederate and Union sides, most of them being Confederates.

Jenny St. Clair, however, belonged to a staunch Union family and was herself a Unionist. Those were times when raids were made by the Confederates behind the Union armies for the purpose of harassing their enemy's communications. Jenny's post was far in the rear of the Union advance, but she knew that at any time the town was liable to be captured and the first place the raiders always took possession of was the telegraph office. Jenny used to wonder what she should do if they swooped down upon her office, and her thoughts finally resulted in a plan of action in such an event.

One night a cavalry force commanded by the famous Confederate partisan leader, General John Morgan, came riding into town and half a dozen men under an officer went straight for the telegraph office on the second floor of a small frame building. Dismounting, they hurried upstairs and threw open the door, with drawn revolvers ready to cover the operator; but there was no operator there. A kerosene lamp was burning on the table to which the telegraph instrument was fixed. There were several chairs, a looking glass hanging to the wall and a lounge. These were every article in the room except a woman's hat.

"Reckon this office is run by a gal," said one of the men. "She heard us coming and lit out."

"Reckon," replied the officer. "He went to the telegraph table and, sitting down, began to click the key. He called a neighboring town and received a signal which he knew came from a Confederate who had captured the replying station."

"Tell the general," came the words, "that we have just taken this place and are ready to move in conjunction with him against the M. railroad bridge and trestlework. We will attack the bridge guard at the north end at 5 o'clock in the morning and expect General Morgan to do the same on the south end."

The officer called one of his men and gave him the message to take to General Morgan. Then he sprawled himself on the lounge, falling into a doze. There is a half awake, half asleep condition that we have all experienced in which one hears a sound, not knowing whether he really hears it or not. The officer thought he heard a clicking. Telegraph keys are continually clattering, and the key on the table was no exception. But it did not appear to the dozer that the sound was on the table. It was rather down on the floor and at times directly beneath him. Presently he got himself awake and started up to listen. All was perfectly silent. Lying down, he was soon in the same semiconscious condition as before—he dared not go to sleep while on duty—and now the clicking recommenced in a more pronounced manner, and it seemed to be in the head of the lounge on which he rested. He began to take note of the letters and read the message he had just received. It was very singular, he thought, that it could be clicking in his pillow. Was he not dreaming? Or was he really receiving the message? Or was its sender repeating it to make sure of accuracy?

Presently the messenger returned with a dispatch which stated that all was right and General Morgan would be on hand. This was sent over the wire. Then the officer unscrewed the instrument and, taking it with him, rode away with his men. The next morning, when the two detachments of Confederate cavalry made a joint attack on the bridge and trestle, as agreed, they found an overwhelming force drawn up at both ends to oppose them. They proceeded with the attack, only to draw off with a number of killed and wounded and the loss of some prisoners. Among the latter was the officer who had received the telegraph message for General Morgan the night before. The captured officers were taken to the Union general's headquarters.

"Which of you did the telegraphing last night from B?" asked the general. "I" said one of them. "Well, you needn't take the trouble to use any of our telegraph stations again. Our operators are too smart for you."

"How so, general?"

"Orderly, ask Miss St. Clair to step in here."

Jenny St. Clair came in, looking radiant.

"Tell the gentleman how you outwitted him," said the general.

"The lounge you were lying on," said Jenny, "you may remember, was not open underneath. It was hollow and there was a lid to it. Thinking I might some time receive a call from you, I had fixed an instrument inside the lounge, and when I heard you clatter up to the office, got in and closed the lid over me. I heard the message you received and transmitted it to the general for me. What I feared was that you would hear the click of my instrument."

"I did," said the officer, opening his eyes, "but being used with hard riding I was drowsy and thought it was a repetition."

Jenny received a large reward from the government and had so well served and married a colonel in the Union army.

NEW OATH FOR FOREIGNERS

All Must Swear on Naturalization
Not to Favor Assassination.

All foreigners who hereafter are granted naturalization papers must subscribe to a new form of oath drawn up according to provisions made by congress soon after the assassination of President McKinley, says the Chicago Chronicle. The new form is now being prepared by County Attorney Sims, who has decided to adopt uniform papers for all the various courts.

The foreigner must swear he is not opposed to "organized government, that he is not a member of or affiliated with any organization teaching disbelief in or opposition to all organized government, that he does not advocate or teach the duty, necessity or propriety of the unlawful assaulting or killing of any officer or officers, either of specific individuals or of officers generally of the government of the United States or of any other organized government, because of his or their official character and that he has not violated any of the provisions of the act of the second session of the Fifty-seventh congress of the United States of America entitled 'An act to regulate the immigration of aliens into the United States,' approved March 3, 1903."

Up to Date Purse.

Tiny catkins "Leo purses" for small change are to be seen in the hands of up to date shoppers now, says the New York Tribune. They look for all the world like antique water jars, about three or four inches in length and from one to two inches wide, with a stitched calf "handle" at one side and a little bulge at the bottom. The handle is wound about one finger and the entire purse grasped firmly in the hand. They come in red, green and gray and are sometimes worn inside the waist for carrying jewels. They are designed primarily, however, for money alone; but, other than their novelty, their special fitness for this purpose is evident only in their unclosing mouths, which make it an easy matter to "get at" change in a hurry and save the finger tips of gloves.

LADY COOK

CASE IS RECALLED BY ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Of J. H. Wallace, Former Secretary of the Late Sir Francis Cook—Wife Found Dead.

Licking county friends or acquaintances of Tenny C. Clafin who years ago lived at Homer, this county, will be interested in the following Associated Press dispatch from London.

London, July 16—J. H. Wallace, formerly secretary of the late Sir Francis Cook, who recently achieved great notoriety here in connection with his suits for libel against Lady Cook (formerly Miss Tenny C. Clafin, of New York), has been arrested in connection with the mysterious death of his wife. She was found dead in their flat, while Wallace was discovered lying on the floor with his throat cut.

Wallace was taken before a magistrate and charged with attempted suicide. While in the dock he was seized with a fit. The case was adjourned. His wife's death is supposed to be due to heart disease.

PRICE OF ICE

In Newark Compares Very Favorably With Prices in Other Cities—Columbus Prices High.

If present conditions continue much longer as they have been going, Columbus people's only antidote for boiling weather will be "cold shivers," the "icy stare," or "cold feet." The much-to-be-pitied residents of the capital city claim that they are in the clutches of the ice combine. They say that the Citizens' Ice Company, which has to a certain extent a monopoly, is "standing pat," and the managers declare that under no circumstances will the company deviate from its policy of placing minimum sales at 10 cents. This tends to put the cold commodity out of the reach of the poorer consumers.

The Columbus people get still warmer under the collar, as they learn that their town is paying the maximum for ice. A schedule of comparative prices per hundred pounds has been compiled by the Columbus Citizen, and as one examines it, he can see wherein our neighbors have their kick coming: Columbus—Ice Trust.....70c

CAMP MEETING.

The camp meeting at Gratiot on the Smith camp ground is attracting great attention. The large auditorium was full Tuesday night to hear Mrs. S. M. Griffith, wife of Evangelist Griffith who preached from the text St. John 11-14 "Loose Him and Let Him Go." She held the attention of the great audience for one hour, after which the evangelist with the piano, cornet and large chorus the music was a great inspiration to all. Sunday is looked forward to as a great day. The Edward sisters quartet, the famous Welsh singers, will sing in all the services. Dr. Keeler the great pulpit orator, will preach morning and evening. Evangelist Griffith will by request repeat his famous lecture called "Inside the walls of the Ohio Penitentiary."

TAKING LONG CHANCES.

A young married man residing in the vicinity of Newark came here last week ostensibly to see a young lady who cannot possibly know that the former has a wife. Girls who "make up" with strange men have this risk to run. This same man has lately been very attentive to a young married lady residing not a thousand miles from Summit Station, this to the personal knowledge of the writer. He is certainly taking long chances in both cases.—Pataskala Standard.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only cure that acts on the system. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, etc. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Latest Fashion Notes.

Gown Showing Incrustations of Venice. In addition to the collars of Venice or Irish lace, the tendency is to apply lace and incrustations. This latter form of trimming is introduced on a gown of hydrangea blue voile, displaying the popular mutton-leg sleeve. Incrustations of white Venice in floral pattern add richness and beauty to both skirt and bodice. The stitching at the head of the plaits, which vary the sleeves and skirt, is done with Corticelli stitching silk. The rounding neck is a feature of late designs for warm days.

We shall not entirely depend in Irish lace for whole dresses this year. There is a coarse make of thick lace, between Cluny, Maltese and Yak, which is adapted to the same purpose. Chiffon is employed much for evening gowns, and one of its adapted uses is as a bridal veil, seen on the Continent, but not as yet here. It is a material that lends itself to soft bouillonnages and infinitesimal tuckings. Tulle blends best with silver for evening wear, and tassels fall everywhere.

Very Remarkable Cure of Diarrhoea.

"About six years ago, for the first time in my life I had a sudden and severe attack of diarrhoea," says Mrs. Alice Miller, of Morgan, Texas. "I got temporary relief but it came back again and again, and for six long years I have suffered more misery and agony than I can tell. It was worse than death. My husband spent hundreds of dollars for physicians' subscriptions and treatment without avail. Finally we moved to Boque county, our present home, and one day I happened to see an advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with a testimonial of a man who had been cured by it. The case was so similar to my own that I concluded to try the remedy. The result was wonderful. I could hardly realize that I was well again, or believe it could be so after having suffered so long, but that one bottle of medicine, costing but a few cents, cured me." For sale by all druggists.
